This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Cornell Univ. Library.

PREFACE.

In January, 1887, the Trustees of Cornell University received from the Hon. Andrew Dickson White, LL.D., L.H.D., late its President and Professor of History, the following letter :—

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, Jan. 19, 1887.

GENTLEMEN OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES,—Some thirty-five years ago, while I was still a student at college, I formed the purpose of collecting a historical library. From that time to this, at home and abroad, I have steadily kept this purpose in view, selecting the best works I could find, not only in history proper, but in the subsidiary fields of Literature, Political and Social Science, International Law, and Art (including especially Architecture). I have particularly sought those throwing light upon the great events, periods, and tendencies of human thought and action, upon the development of modern civilization, upon the building up of modern states, upon the men who have bettered the condition of mankind.

As a result, I have accumulated a library of about thirty thousand volumes, besides some ten thousand valuable pamphlets, and not a few manuscripts. In almost all its departments, I may say without undue partiality, there are very many works rare and valuable; in several the collection would doubtless be considered remarkable; and in one or two it is certainly unequalled in the United States. The bringing together of this library has been to me a labor of love. It consists to an unusual extent of primary sources and original materials for historical study; and my thought has been not solely of myself, but of the American scholars of the future. It has always been my intention to place it some day as a whole where it could be used to the best advantage by historical students. The cost of the collection, with its catalogues, has been, in money, as nearly as I can now estimate, rather more than a hundred thousand dollars. Its present value, consisting as it does in great part of works scarce, long sought, and yearly appreciating in price, it would be hard to reckon in dollars and cents; but something of its practical worth I have had occasion to know by its use during my professorships at the University of Michigan and at Cornell University; and I hope that it may yet serve others even more fully than it has served me.

A part of this library — that bearing upon Architecture — I gave to Cornell University upon the establishment of its Architectural Department; and the occasion of the establishment of a Law School and the reorganization of the Department of History and Political Science by the Trustees of the University, seems an appropriate time for me to make a fitting disposal of the remainder.

There are three places in our country, in either of which it would gratify my feeling of local and personal attachment to bestow it as a gift. Foremost among these is Cornell University; and in case there can be provided for the collection, at some day not far distant, a suitable fire-proof room in any building which shall be erected for your general library, and proper provision made for its maintenance and usefulness, it will give me pleasure to place it permanently in your custody.

In case you shall view this proposal with favor, I shall be happy to meet any committee you may appoint to arrange the conditions on which the gift may be made and accepted.

I remain, gentlemen, Very respectfully yours,

ANDREW D. WHITE.

The following resolutions were thereupon unanimously adopted :—

Resolved, That the Trustees of Cornell University accept with gratitude the munificent offer of Ex-President White to present his valuable library to the University, and tender him their hearty thanks, in which they feel that the Faculty and the alumni of the University, as well as all friends of higher education, most cordially unite.

Resolved, That a committee of five, embracing the President of the University and the Chairman of the Board, be appointed to arrange with Dr. White the details and conditions on which his proposed munificent gift of his historical and political library shall be accepted by Cornell University.

The conditions agreed to by the Committee for the acceptance of the gift are embodied in the following letter :—

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, ITHACA, NEW YORK, July 5, 1887.

To the Members of the Committee of the Trustees of Cornell University appointed to consider the proposal of Andrew D. White regarding the transfer of his library to Cornell University :—

GENTLEMEN,—In accordance with the understanding arrived at during our recent meeting, I hereby respectfully present my proposal embodying the terms upon which I prefer that my library be accepted by the University (and by the words "my library," wherever used in this document, I mean all books, pamphlets, and newspapers belonging to me, whether in Ithaca or in Syracuse or already deposited in the University Library) :—

I. The University shall provide, within four years from the date of this letter, a suitable room or rooms for the reception of forty thousand volumes, in a fire-proof building upon the University grounds, the said room or rooms to be separate from those containing the general library of the University. It is my wish and expectation that all the books, pamphlets, and newspapers of my library, so far as it may be possible to include them under the topics of history and political science, be placed therein; and in case it seem wise that my books relating to other subjects be incorporated with the general library of the University, that then and in that case a number equivalent to them, so far as possible, of works relating to history or to political science be transferred in their stead from the general library to the said room or rooms.

II. The Trustees of the University shall set apart annually, from any funds now, or hereafter to be, in their control, the sum of five thousand four hundred dollars ($5,400), the same to be forever appropriated and used in the following manner and for the purposes hereinafter named, to wit:—

(1) Eight hundred dollars ($800) to be annually set apart, which shall be devoted to the purchase of books in the fields of study to which my library is especially devoted; namely, history and the branches kindred thereto.

(2) Six hundred dollars ($600) to be annually set apart, which shall provide for the salary of a Librarian, to have charge of the collection, subject to the Librarian of the University.

(3) Five hundred dollars ($500) to be annually set apart for the maintenance of a Fellowship in Modern History, the same to be awarded annually by the Faculty of the University under the general rules and conditions governing the award of the Fellowships already existing.

(4) Five hundred dollars ($500) to be annually set apart for the maintenance of a Fellowship in Political and Social Science, the same to be awarded annually by the Faculty of the University under the general rules and conditions governing the award of the Fellowships already existing, but with preference to any candidate of ability and purpose who shall propose to make practical studies upon living social questions, such as pauperism, crime, inebriety, illiteracy, the relations of capital to labor, of educational institutions to public instruction, and the like. And I see no reason why either or both of the above-described Fellowships should not, in the discretion of the Faculty, be made a travelling Fellowship, for the purpose of study and investigation, the holder thereof making from time to time to the Faculty such reports of his progress as they may require; nor do I see any reason why, in the case of a student of very exceptional ability and promise in either of the fields above specified, the two Fellowships may not for a single year, in the discretion of the Faculty and for the sake of enabling more thorough research, be combined into one.

(5) Three thousand dollars ($3,000) to be annually set apart for the maintenance of a Professorship of History, with the understanding that the duty of such Professor shall be to give instruction in such part or parts of the general field indicated by his title as may be thought by the Faculty most advisable, and that instruction in International Law may, if it be thought best by the Faculty, be included in the duties of such Professor.

III. And the Trustees of the University shall also set apart the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), to be appropriated and used for the preparation and publication, as a whole or in parts, of a catalogue of the works embraced in the several divisions of my library. And if any part of the said sum of ten thousand dollars shall remain after the said catalogue shall have been prepared and printed, then and in that case a sum equal to the annual interest of the said residue at six per cent. shall be annually added to the sum hereinbefore stipulated as to be set apart for the purchase of books in the fields of study to which my library is especially devoted.

IV. And inasmuch as, notwithstanding the care taken in the collection of my own library and of that of the University to avoid the duplication of books, a certain number of works have been unavoidably duplicated, it is understood that all books in my library published during the present century which are ascertained to be duplicates of books already in the possession of the University Library are withdrawn by me, and may be retained by me or by my heirs and assigns permanently. (And by "duplicates" I understand and here mean books identical in contents, and do not consider a book not a duplicate simply because it has a different date or is published in a different place or by a different firm. In other words, to take a book out of the category of duplicates, there must be some real and substantial difference in the text,—either increase or improvement in the matter or in the treatment.)

And I also hereby stipulate that all books named in the schedule hereto annexed, being, in the main, works of comparatively small value, but which for various (and generally for personal) reasons my family or myself desire to retain, in number not exceeding five hundred volumes, may be retained by me or by them,—this said reserve not to include any of the manuscripts or reproductions of manuscripts, on vellum or paper, or early printed works, or books of especial value in connection with the history of the Revival of Learning, or of the Reformation, or of the French Revolution, or of the American Civil War, or of the Jesuits, or of Witchcraft, or of Torture, or of Education.

And it is also agreed that I may, for the space of my lifetime, or until such time during my lifetime as may seem to me best, retain five thousand volumes upon deposit, a memorandum of the same to be held by the Librarian of the University, and said works to be considered as the property of the University, for which I am responsible to it.

Trusting that this arrangement may be satisfactory to your Board, I remain, Gentlemen,

Very respectfully and truly yours,

ANDREW D. WHITE.

In accordance with these provisions, the catalogue of the President White Library, already far advanced at the time of the gift, has since been pushed steadily toward completion. A first division is now given to the press. As will be seen, it is an author-catalogue, with subject-entries under persons and places.

The history and character of the library as a whole, the items of its special wealth, the form of its catalogue, will be discussed in a general introduction later to be issued. It needs here to say only a word of the limits of the present division and of the bibliographical aids cited in it.

The limits of such a topical catalogue must always be more or less arbitrary. To avoid trenching unnecessarily upon the territory of the political history of the several European nations throughout the Reformation period, upon the history of the mediæval church at its beginning, and upon that of the Counter-Reformation at its close, has been no easy task. To this end, the Protestant Reformation has been understood to mean the religious and social, but not the political, movement of its time. By its Forerunners have been understood the schismatics and heretics who, from the Waldenses to Luther, sought to bring about a reformation by individual teaching or practice; but not the great churchmen and Councils who attempted it through the Church herself. Natural stopping-points have suggested themselves: for Germany the Religious Peace of Augsburg (1555), for France the outbreak of the Wars of Religion (1562), for Europe in general the close of the Council of Trent (1563); but it has seemed unwise to hold to these dates with absolute rigor. In general, all the works of the Reformers produced in the third quarter of the 16th century are included in the present catalogue, while those of their opponents written after the middle of the century are reserved for that which will embrace the Catholic Reformation. To draw a line between German Humanism and the Reformation has not been attempted: from Reuchlin onward all the works of the Humanists who were in any way associated with the Reformers are here included. Of the poets and satirists, only those productions are named which deal directly with the religious struggle; yet always, in cases of doubt, inclusion has been preferred to exclusion. It is hardly necessary to add that no general histories, universal, national, or ecclesiastical, save such as devote a distinct and separately-titled volume to the period of the Reformation, will here be found.

Of the bibliographies especially referred to, the most important are Panzer's Annalen der ältern deutschen Litteratur (Nürnberg, 1788–1805) and Weller's supplement thereto—the Repertorium typographicum (Nördlingen, 1864). To these works (cited simply as 'Panzer' or as 'Weller, Rep.') reference is made from all books printed during the period which they cover—that prior to 1527. 'Hain,' for books printed before 1500, means, of course, that author's Repertorium bibliographicum (Stuttgart, 1826–38). The other authorities briefly cited are: Weller's Annalen der poetischen National-Literatur der Deutschen (Freiburg i. B., 1862–64), as 'Weller, Ann.,'—Goedecke's invaluable Grundriss zur Geschichte der deutschen Dichtung (2te Aufl., Bde. i–iii, Dresden, 1884–87),—and W. von Maltzahn's Deutscher Bücherschatz (Jena, 1875).

Of the collections of Reformation literature whose titles most frequently recur—'Gratius, Fasciculus,' 'Hutten's Op., ed. Böcking,' 'Pasquillorum tomi duo,' 'Schade, Satiren,' 'Schelhorn, Amoenitates'—sufficient descriptions will be found, under the proper headings, in the catalogue itself. Only the curious reprint hodge-podge of the Stuttgart bookseller Scheible, fancifully entitled Das Kloster, must, though often cited, await a later section for a list of its heterogeneous contents.

The titles of all books printed before 1600 are given in full, from both title-page and colophon, with indication of line-endings. Only epigraphs, texts, prefaces, and other irrelevant matter are omitted, their place being taken by a descriptive word. Ligatures and abbreviations are spelt out. Of books of the 17th century full titles are not given, but all omissions are indicated. Of later books, save of such as seemed rare and curious enough to be treated like incunabula, the titles have been abridged at will (though sparingly) and without signs of ellipsis. The imprint—properly no part of the title—has been remanded to the note, except in books older than 1600; and even in these it is repeated in the note when the transcribed form of it is in any way obscure.

In the titles, italics are used for words inserted by the cataloguer, whether (1) in description or (2) in the spelling out of ligatures and abbreviations. But, with the exception of the constantly recurring 'At end' in titles of the era of colophons and of 'etc.' in modern titles, all descriptive additions are also bracketed. In titles antedating 1700, italics have also been used for words which in a Gothic title-page are printed in Latin type, or the reverse. In the notes, titles are themselves italicized.

As stated in the letter of Mr. White, care has from the first been taken by him to avoid the purchase of books already in the University Library. It has seemed just, therefore, to include in this catalogue the few additional works possessed by the University in this field. These are marked by a C at the end of the title. A certain amount of duplication has, however, been unavoidable; and D and d at the end of titles denote respectively that the University has already an exact or a virtual duplicate of the book described.

The notes will, it is hoped, be of use not only to the bibliographer, but to the student also. It is in the interest of the latter that the date and place of the writing, as well as those of the printing, of early books have been noted.

G. L. B.

SIZES OF BOOKS.

The disuse of fixed sizes of paper consequent on the improvement of the printing-press has long made useless and well nigh impracticable the old nomenclature for the forms of books. In view of this, the American Library Association has urged its entire abandonment and the substitution of an exact metric measurement of each volume. That suggestion is here adopted. Where the book is of the usual shape (the width about three-fifths the height—as in what are currently called 'octavos'), the height alone is given (as '23h'); where otherwise, both height and width, the height preceding (as '23×20'). Fractional centimeters are reckoned as whole ones. These measurements may, for the most part, be readily translated into the old nomenclature (as now used by American libraries) by means of the following

Contents:—I. Genesis—Ruth. II. Kings—Psalms. III. Proverbs—Maccabees. IV. Matthew—Apocalypse.

—— — Biblia The Bible, that is, the holy Scripture of the Olde and Newe Testament, faithfully and truly translated out of Douche and Latyn in to Englishe [by M. Coverdale]. M. D. XXXV.

n. p., 1535. 30×20. Black-letter. In double cols. of 47 lines. 2 specimen leaves of 'Coverdale's Bible,' the first printed ed. of the whole Bible in English; namely, ff. lxxiii and lxxx (containing ch. xiv, 5—xv, 38, and xvii, 36—xix, 15 of 'The iiij boke of the kynges'). 'This Bible was for a long time supposed to have been printed at Zurich, but in 1877 Mr. H. Stevens, in the Catalogue of the Caxton Exhibition, gave strong reasons for believing it to have been printed by J. van Meteren, at Antwerp.'—Brit. Mus. Cat. of Early Engl. Books, 1884 (from which the above title is copied). This specimen fragment, as well as those of the two Bibles next to be described, were 'bound by W. Pratt for H. Stevens, 1876,' and obtained directly from that eminent antiquary, who is presumably responsible for their identification. It is perhaps noteworthy that not even the British Museum itself possesses a perfect copy either of this or of the 'Great Bible' next described. See, for description, Cotton's Editions of the Bible (2d ed., pp. 8–10, 274, 275); and Dore's Old Bibles, p. 25.

—— — ¶ The Byble in | Englyshe, that is to saye the con- | tent of all the holy scrypture, bothe | of ye olde and newe testament, truly | translated after the veryte of the | Hebrue and Greke textes, by ye dy- | lygent studye of dyuerse excellent | learned men, expert in the forsayde | tonges. | ¶ Prynted by Rychard Grafton | & Edward Whitchurch. | [Priv.] | 1539.

[Paris and London,] 1539. 39×27. Black-letter. In double cols. of 60 lines. t.-p. partly in red. 3 specimen leaves of this first ed. of the 'Great Bible;' namely, the title-page and ff. lxiii, lxx (containing chapters ii, 11—iv, 7 and xviii, 11—xxi, 7 of 'The Prophecy of Jeremy').

See, for an account of this famous ed. and of the difficulties under which it was printed, Cotton's Editions of the Bible (2d ed., pp. 15, 279, 280); and Dore's Old Bibles, p. 41. The t.-p. contains a very elaborate wdct border, ascribed to Holbein, representing Henry VIII dispensing the Scriptures from his throne, with Cranmer and Cromwell aiding him. In the present copy, however, this wdct-page is probably one of the subordinate t.-pp. of the volume, with the letter-press of the main title inserted: for the insertion is evident, and that the reverse of the leaf does not bear 'The names of all the bookes of the Byble,' as in the copies elsewhere described, is apparent, in spite of the mutilated leaf (containing the preface 'To the Reader') confusingly pasted upon it.

—— The whole Byble, that is the holy scripture of the Olde and Newe testament faythfully translated into Englyshe by Myles Coverdale and newly oversene and correcte. M. D. L. Prynted for Andrewe Hester.

[Zürich,] 1550. 23×19. Black-letter. In double cols. of 50 lines. 2 specimen leaves, namely, ff. cccclxxxvi, cccclxxxvii (containing ch. iv, 47—vii, 38 of 'The II. boke of the Machabees'). Title copied from Brit. Mus. Cat. cited above. Lettered (by H. Stevens?) 'second edition,' but according to Cotton and Lowndes it is the third edition of Coverdale's translation, the second having been printed by Nycolson at Southwark in 1537. This third edition was printed by Christoph Froschauer (thought by some to have been the printer of the first edition also) at Zürich. See, for proof of this and for description, Cotton's Editions of the Bible (2d ed., pp. 23, 289).

—— Old Testament. Pentateuch. William Tyndale's five books of Moses, called the Pentateuch; a verbatim reprint of the edition of 1530, compared with Tyndale's Genesis of 1534, and the Pentateuch in the Vulgate, Luther, and Matthew's Bible, with collations and prolegomena, by J. I. Mombert. C.

[Strasburg, 1524?] 21×16. ff. 47+[1]. Weller, Rep., 2788. No. 1 in vol. lettered German Tracts by Reformers, I. The full-page wdct at end, representing a scholar and an angel under an apple-tree, the tree bearing in its branches a frog surmounted by the initials 'C. F' and at its base the initials 'ZCH,' can hardly be anything else than the device of Christoph Froschauer, Zürich. Yet Weller ascribes the book to the press of Joh. Prüss, at Strasburg, and Graesse (absurdly) to the year 1550. The author describes himself as an 'vngenanter läy', who has taken upon himself 'einfaltiger weise, inn disen geuerlichen zeiten, etwas in druck in die gelerte welt vssgeen lassen.' Two or three allusions to that 'hoch geleerten, theüren, grossen fass Gottes, D. Martin Luther' show the writer a Protestant (though leaning to the Zwinglian view of the Lord's Supper), and favor the date suggested by Weller —'c. 1524.'

n. p., [1518?]. 19×14. pp. [15]. In vol. lettered 46 Tractaten. Not in Panzer or Weller, and apparently unknown to the historians. This vigorous tractate (not satire) against the tonsure, and incidentally against monkery and 'Pfaffenthum' in general is printed from the same type as Ulrich von Hutten's Gedicht von einem Tyrannen (the German transl. of his Phalarismus), which must have appeared in 1518 (see Weller, Rep., 1118). An allusion to 'ietzundt dises Jubel jar (das der Antichrist gen Rom gelegt hatt vmb beraubung vnd betrugs willen deütscher nation eingesetzt)' would seem, however, to indicate either 1525 or 1500 as the date of its composition; and the absence of all mention of the Reformation lends probability to the earlier date, though so early an identification of the Pope with Antichrist is (if it be not an interpolation) rather startling. The Brit. Mus. Cat. is certainly wrong in suggesting 1530 as the date of impression; and even 1522, the conjecture of W. v. Maltzahn (in his Bücherschatz), can hardly be early enough, since the type is as sharp and fresh as in Hutten's Gedicht. The little book attacks bitterly those who rush to Rome 'nach ablass, nach Römischem dreck,' complains that many would-be reformers are languishing in convent-dungeons, and is in general (if so early as appears) a significant forerunner of the Reformation.

[? Magdeburg, 1550.] 16h. pp. 15+[1]. Save for its t.-p. and preface and for the signature at end, this satire is substantially identical with the Epistola de non apostolicis quorundam moribus qui in apostolorum se locum successisse gloriantur repr. (both in its Latin orig. and in threefold German transl. of 1521) in Schade, Satiren, ii, 80–92; yet the variations in text are sufficient to preclude its being a mere reprint of that impression. The present is, however, confessedly a reimpression, for its preface speaks of its appearance 'ante XXX et eo amplius annos,' and refers to its author as one of those who lived 'ante centum annos.' Schade's version (undated, but ascribed by Panzer to a Basel press, and certainly antedating 1521) has at end the date 'anno a palatii nostri fractione . . . millesimo trecentesimo quinquagesimo primo' and the signature 'Beelzebub | vester specialis amicus.' Are both these forms only variants of that earlier Epistola ad malos principes ecclesiasticos (1507) ascribed by Flacius (followed by Weller, Lex. pseud., s. v. Lucifer), who republished it in 1549, to Nicolas Oresme, and which, according to Wattenbach, first appeared at Avignon in 1351? All stand alike upon the Index, and Reusch (in his Der Index, i, 291) identifies the two latter, though failing to recognize their relation to the Bulla. Certainly neither of them is, as says the Brit. Mus. Cat. (s. v. Beelzebub), 'a satirical pamphlet on the Reformation controversy.' According to Brunet a German transl. of the Bulla diaboli appeared at Magdeburg in 1550; and it is not improbable that both this and the Bulla itself were the work of Flacius, who in that very year (according to Reusch) turned into German the Epistola Luciferi. The date of impression (1545) given the Bulla by Peignot and Græsse is pure conjecture.

The curious and significant tracts above enumerated are said to have been written by Eberlin during his stay in Switzerland in 1521–22, and to have been printed by Gengenbach at Basel. Though first issued separately, they are referred to by Eberlin himself (see his Der Frommen pfaffen trost below) under this collective title, and a collective edition (Panzer, 1207) soon appeared. More detailed descriptions of the several numbers may be found in Panzer (as above), in Græsse, in W. v. Maltzahn's Bücherschatz (i, 425), and in Gœdeke's Grundriss, (IV, § 134, 11, pp. 221–23). Reimpressions of them appeared singly in many quarters (cf. below Das lob der Pfarrer); and that Gengenbach himself issued them for separate circulation is shown by the present copy of 'Der. IX. bundtgnoss,' which (unlike those described by Panzer and W. v. Maltzahn) lacks these words—though a contemporary hand has supplied them in ms.

[Basel, 1557.] 13ʰ. pp. [498]. t.-p. border. Böcking, Index Ep., 9. Vol. ii has sep. t.-p. (Alterum volumen, etc.), but continuous signatures. The 'Dialogus in calce' is app. to vol. i, and is the Dialogus novus et mire festivus ex quorundam virorum salibus cribratus (Böcking, Index Reuch., xxxx), for other impressions of which see Dialogus, etc. The other satires (De generibus ebriosorum, etc.) often appended to this edition of the Epistolæ are not found in the present copy, but are all in the edition next to be described. The authorship of this most boisterous and most effective of satires is still a mystery. At first attributed to Reuchlin himself, then to Reuchlin, Erasmus, and Hutten, the emphatic repudiation of it by the two elder scholars left Hutten's responsibility for it almost unquestioned. But modern scholarship has thrown great doubts upon this, and the keenest critics now incline to give to his friend Crotus Rubianus a larger share in its production, assigning to Hutten (on the strength of his own letters) no part in its inception or in the first issue, and only a subordinate one in the second. The best description of the work is perhaps the chapter upon it in Strauss's Hutten, where its composition is thus summed up: 'The Epistolæ Obscurorum Virorum, as we now have them, consist, first, of the forty-one letters of the first and second editions of 1515 and 1516; secondly, of the seven letters forming the appendix to the third edition. Thirdly, of the second part, 1517, containing sixty-two letters, to the second edition of which an appendix of eight letters was added. The ninth, or rather first letter, is a repetition of one in Part I; the eighth letter of the first appendix is a later interpolation; and the so-called third part of the Epistolæ, first printed in 1689, is a collection of additions of various periods, and has nothing whatever to do with the original work.' The best of the numerous editions is that of Böcking, described below, with valuable bibliographical indices.

Appended to vol. i is the Dialogus novus et mire festivus, and to vol. ii the following: Conciliabulum theologistarum, Huttenus captivus, Huttenis illustris, De generibus ebriosorum, De fide meretricum, De fide concubinarum, Prognostica (by A. Gartner), Monopolium philosophorum, Marcolphus, and Disputatio de Cornelio; for all which see also under their several titles. 'Kritischen Werth hat diese Ausgabe so wenig als eine der vorhergehenden seit 1557 gemachten, aber sie wird ihrer netten äusseren Beschaffenheit wegen, und weil sie seltener ist als die übrigen neueren Duodezausgaben, meistens überschätzt.'—Böcking.

n. p., [1521]. 19×15. pp. [15]. Weller, Repr., 1846. Lower half of last leaf torn off; but apparently without mutilation of text. Lettered Luther in Worms. This is that rare contemporary account of the Diet of Worms on whose authority largely rests Luther's famous utterance: 'Ich kan nicht anderst, hie stehe ich, Got helff mir, Amen.' See Köstlin's Luther, i, 452, and especially his Luthers Rede in Worms, 20, sqq. Acc. to K., it is based upon the ms. minutes of Spalatin, still preserved at Weimar. The appended safe-conducts ('geleytcz brieff') are those of the Emperor, of George of Saxony, and of Philip of Hesse.

[Strasburg, 1510.] 21×16. pp. [556 instead of 567]. Black-letter. Initials indicated. The type is Schurer's (as in the Fragmenta passionis—see below), but there is no colophon such as Panzer cites (vi, p. 50). The Compendiosa vitæ [Geileri] descriptio has been detached and is bound separately (see Rhenanus, B.). P. 556 is blank. Only two wdcts: one on the t.-p., the other occupying p. [52], between index and text. The pref. letter of Otther (dated 'Ex Argen. iij. Idus Februarij. Ann. M. D. X.'), the Turmarum annotatio, and the Index occupy pp. [2–3, 4–13, and 14–51] respectively; then the text, filling the remainder of the vol. to p. [555], where it is closed by Otther's brief epilogue to the reader (bearing same date as his pref.). At top of t.-p. the contemp. autogr.: 'P. F. Sebastianum . . . Anno 15. 11mo.'

20×16. pp. [557]. Black-letter, excepting the editorial portions, to wit: the prefatory letter to J. 'Wydel ex Gersbach,' the concluding letter to the reader, and the Geileri vita, which are in Roman type. It is profusely illustrated, containing, besides the title-vignette, 112 wdcts, said to be by Hans Baldung Grün and Urs Graf; but several of these are repeated. Many of them are borrowed from the 1497 edition of Brandt's Narrenschiff, and have German inscriptions. Besides the 22 ff. of preliminary matter (pref. letter, Turmarum annotatio, and Materiarum index) and the 3 ff. of the Geileri vita at the end, this edition contains 254 ff.—not 147 as Brunet, or 137 as Græsse says. Many ms. notes.

COMPLETE WORKS.

—— Opera quæ reperiri potuerunt omnia; edidit E. Böcking.

Lipsiæ, 1859–69. 24h. 7 v. Double t.-pp. (Lat. and Ger.). Vols. vi and vii are lettered Supplem. 1 and Supplem. 2, i, ii, respectively.

Contents:—I. Index bibliographicus Huttenianus.—Horoscopos Hutteni.—Epistolæ Hutteni, item ad eundem deque eodem ab aliis ad alios scriptæ, 1506–1520. ii. Epistolæ Hutteni, etc., 1521–1523.—Epistolæ de eodem, 1523–1725. iii. Hutteni poemata, cum corollariis (1. Elegiæ et De arte versificandi.—2. Exhortatoria, Epigrammata, Heroica, res Germanicas, Venetas, Romanas spectantia.—3. Carmina panegyricum cum exclamatorio, deploratorium, triumphale.—4. Contra Romanistas pro Luthero.).—Addenda ad voll. i, ii, iii, iv, v. iv. Hutteni dialogi, item pseudohuttenici non nulli.—Addendæ ad vol. i. Epistulæ. v. Hutteni orationes et scripta didascalica, cum corollariis.—Addenda ad voll. i, ii. vi. (Suppl. i). Epistolæ obscurorum virorum, cum inlustrantibus adversariisque scriptis. vii (Suppl. ii), 1. Index editionum Epistolarum obscurorum virorum.—Indicis bibliographici Hutteniani supplementum, cum indice libellorum non Huttenianorum.—Index scriptorum causam Reuchlinianam spectantium.—Conspectus chronologicus scriptorum gestorumque quæ præcipue ad causam Reuchlinianam et ad Epp. O. V. pertinent.—Index verborum quæ in Epp. O. V. leguntur.—Nomina eorum a quibus et ad quos Epp. O. V. scriptæ finguntur. vii, 2. Index biographicus et onomasticus.—Commentarius, sive ad Epistolarum obscurorum virorum varias partes adcuratius explicandas adnotatio.—Addenda et emendanda ad Hutteni opp. voll. i–vii.

Or, less explicitly, in English:—I. Letters, 1506–20. ii. Letters, 1521–23. iii. Poetical writings. iv. Dialogues. v. Orations and didactic writings. vi. The Epistolæ obscurorum virorum. vii. Indexes, etc.

But no table of contents less extended than those of the several vols. could suggest the wealth of illustrative contemporary matter reproduced in this rich collection.

SINGLE WORKS AND COLLECTIONS.

Note.—The productions of Ulrich von Hutten are here arranged in the chronological order followed by Böcking in his Index bibliographicus Huttenianus (see his ed. of Hutten's Opera, vols. i and vii); and a reference from each title to that masterful bibliography makes more detailed description unnecessary.

[Mainz, 1519.] 20×16. pp. [212]. Böcking, xxiv, 1. Port. of Hutten, and cut of his cousin's murder. Wdct initials. The contents include several letters of Hutten not enumerated on the t.-p. For the proof that this work was printed, not at Steckelberg, but by Schöffer at Mainz, see Böcking, as above. The misleading colophon was only a device to save the real printer from persecution—a persecution which later, for printing Hutten's attacks on the Pope, he actually suffered. At top of the t.-p. of this copy, in a contemporary hand: 'Emi Anno xx° ix solidos . . . In Rostochio.' Other ms. notes in same hand, including a list of book-titles.

——, and others. Contenta: | Vlrichi ab Hutten, Equitis Germ. Exclamatio, in | incendium Lutheranum. | Chunradi Sarctoris saxofranci, de eadem re ad | Germanos Oratio. | Carmen elegans & doctum, in Hieronymu*m* Ale- | andrum, hostem Germanicae liberratis [sic]. | Conclusiones decem christianissimæ, per Andrea*m* | Bodenstein, de Carlostad. | Vuittenbergæ | disputa- | tae.

n. p., [1520]. 21×16. pp. [19]. Böcking, xxxiii[a], 3. 'Chunradus Sarctor Saxofrancus' is undoubtedly a pseud., and Böcking has shown that his Oratio is only another form of the Epistola Udeloni Cymbri Cusani de exustione librorum Lutheri which appeared the same year. Weller (in his Lex. pseud.) ascribes the latter to Hutten; but Böcking says, 'De vero libelli auctore mihi non constat.' The Carmen in Alexandrum belongs clearly to the same author, as does also the Expostulatio appended to it.

Arminius. 1529.

—— Arminivs| Dialogus Huttenicus, Quo | homo patriæ aman- | tissimus, Germa | norum laudem | celebrauit. At end: Haganoæ in ædibus | Iohan. Sec. Anno | M.D.XXIX.

16[h]. pp. [46]. Böcking, xlviii, 1. The prefatory verses of Eobanus Hessus are dated 'Nvrenbergæ, Anno M.D.XXVIII. Mense Augusto.' The last leaf bears only a device; but on its reverse, in a neat contemporary hand, is the following

'Elegans et venustum Epigram- | ma in studiosorum contemptores | scriptum a Joanne Stygelio.

'Ausum Phœbæos quondam contemnere cantus
Prisca refert pœnas fama dedisse Mydam
Zoilus ingenio magni detraxit Homeri
Inuenit pœnas non minus ille suas
Nunc impune licet conuitia dicere doctis
Vltor & hic aliquis non cupit esse Deus?
Ira quod hic cessat tua Phœbe, quod ira Minerua?
Sic ego, sic placido rettulit ille sono.
Quicunque ingenuas odere hostiliter artes
Hos sua iampridem pœna luenda manet
Cum sed eos noris brutorum viuere vitam
Dic age, punitos non satis esse putas?'

Mounted on the fly-leaf of this vol. (and easily to be mistaken for a t.-p.) is the very elaborate book-plate of Joh. Conrad Feuerlein.

n. p., [ca. 1500]. 20×14. pp. [39]. Black-letter. On p. [32] begins the Taxe sacre Penitentiarie apostolice. This impr. is apparently unknown to bibliographers. On the inside of the cover of the present copy is the following ms. note: 'Dieses Buch ist gedruckt mit denselben Typen, womit G. Biel epithoma expositionis Canonis misse ex Thubingen 1499 gedruckt ist.' Both wdct and type point to a date not far from 1500. The Taxe saçre penitentiarie apostolice is that famous official tariff of the papal pardon-office at Rome whose very existence has been for centuries denied by the defenders of the Church—as by Veuillot and Cassagnac in our own day—and its reimpressions stigmatized as Protestant forgeries. But the indisputable pre-Reformation impressions, such as the present, now coming to light make the plea no longer tenable. For a modern reprint and transl., with a list of the known copies and other valuable notes, see below Taxes de la pénitencerie apostolique (1879); and, for another, Mendham, J., Life and pontificate of St. Pius V. Liber vagatorum : der Bettler Orden. [Repr., from ed. of Tübingen, 1510, in Scheible, J. Das Schaltjahr, iv. 1847.]

For the ed. here reprinted see Weller, Rep., 556; and, for a bibliography of the book in question, the Serapeum for 1862 (p. 113). As Goedeke has pointed out, the author of this popular and often reprinted satire on beggardom was doubtless Pamphilus Gengenbach, the Basel printer and poet, whose rhyming edition is shown by the retention of some of its rhymes in the prose versions to be earlier than these. See Goedeke, Pamphilus Gengenbach (Hanover, 1856); also his Grundriss, § 116, and Bartsch, s. v. Gengenbach, in the Allg. deut. Biog. Appended is what has been held the oldest vocabulary of 'Rotwelsch,' or argot.

—— Same. English. The book of vagabonds and beggars; with a vocabulary of their language, ed. by Martin Luther in 1528. Now first transl. into English with introd. and notes, by J. C. Hotten.

London, 1860. 20×15. pp. 37+64. Following the introd. is a frontispiece (a reprod. of the old t.-p. wdct) and a second t.-p.: Liber vagatorum: the book of vagabonds and beggars, with a preface by Martin Luther. Printed at Wittemberg in the year M.D.XXIX. Hotten's introd. has little bibliographical value. For a not too severe review of it and a really valuable bibliography of the Liber vagatorum, see the articles by Herr J. M. Wagner in the Serapeum for 1862 (pp. 103, 113). This writer declares its first publisher to have been Thomas Anshelm at Pforzheim in 1509 and mentions as antetype a ms. Betrügnis der Giler und Blinden; but later authorities seem to concur in Goedeke's ascription of the earliest form of the work to Gengenbach.

Lucifer, (pseud.). Ein ernstlich mandath aus der hellen an dye stendt Baider Regiment geistlich vnd weltlich, sonderlich an vnsern statthalter den Babst Ertz Bischoff, Prelaten prüester vnd geschrifft glerten gesandt.

A manuscript, 15×9, written on paper, in a neat 16th century Latin hand. It is undated; but internal evidence would seem to point to the decade following 1525. Thus, on fol. 3 a, occurs the sentence: Nun aber so Marthinnus Luther, wie ir wisset, sich kurtz verschiner Jar, etwas vnd nie wenig, wider vns, vnd die vnsern, sonderlich mit verrätterey, vnd auffdeckhung vnsers AnteChrists [sic], des Babsts vnd seiner mitverwanthen glider . . . auffgelainet, etc. Save Luther, however, who is several times referred to, no other contemporary is mentioned by name. The text begins with the words: Wier Lutzifer: Sathannas von Beelzebub, Götter König, Fürsten, vnd Herren der Hellen, . . . sambt aller vnserer geselschaft [sic], etc. It fills, in all, 36 ff. and ends, on fol. 36 b, with date, signature, and paraph: Dattum [sic] in vnsern hellischen reich, am tag vnserer fürsorg, Anno vnserer weltlichen regierung als wir achten im letzten.—Lutzifer mit sambt seiner gesellschaft [sic]: Enndt. This little satire seems unknown to the bibliographers, and was perhaps never printed. It is—what, if the conjecture as to its date is correct, is especially remarkable—distinctly Anabaptist. The chief stress is upon the tenet of adult baptism; and the taking of oaths, luxury, titles, personal adornment, all resort to force, and even the wearing or supplying of arms are bitterly attacked. That the manuscript is the autograph of its author seems probable from the fact that a signature—"Lucifer" simply—preceding the paraph has been canceled, and the fuller signature quoted above added in the same hand after the paraph. The booklet bears on its cover the bookplate: Ex Libris Tscharnerianis Planaterræ Curiæ Rhætorum, and on a fly-leaf the inscription: Johan Baptista de Scandoleca | Anno 1698 die 12 iobris. It was bought in Zürich in July, 1886.

—— Abbildung | des | Bapstum | durch | Mart. Luth. D. | Wittemberg. | 1545.

[Wittenberg, 1545.] 21×16. pp. [11]. t.-p. border. Weller, Ann., i, 302. Nine full-page wdcts, with descriptive verses under each, signed severally by "Mart. Luth. D. 1545." A very complete description of this rare and most significant lampoon—perhaps the coarsest product of Luther's pen—is given in the Serapeum for 1841 by K. E. Förstemann, and one still more elaborate in the Archiv für Litteraturgeschichte for 1886 by C. Wendeler. The present impression is that described by the latter as the 'Wittenberger Nachdruck' of 1545. The work wholly escaped the older bibliographers, but several copies are now known. The wdcts are ascribed to Lucas Cranach, on the authority of a passage in Luther's letter of 3 June 1545 to Nic. v. Amsdorf; and it would appear from this epistle that the latter, too, had some part in the publication. 'Meister Lucas,' here admits the Reformer himself, 'ist ein grober Maler.' That this impression appeared at Wittenberg is clear from the t.-p. border, which was used in other books there issued. For a vigorous tilt between the friends and foes of Luther apropos of this production see Köstlin's Luther u. Janssen, etc., Janssen's Ein Zweites Wort an meine Kritiker, and especially Wendeler's summing up of the dispute in his above-cited article on Luthers Bilderpolemik.

Attached to the fore-cover of this copy is another full-page wdct, a picture of 'Der Bapstesel zu Rom' similar to that forming no. 2 of this series and to that in the Deuttung der czwo grewlichen Figuren (Wittenberg, 1523), but not identical with either, being superior in execution and evidently cut from a different publication.

For the history of this time-honored satire, with its multitudinous versions, editions, and titles, see Kemble's introd. to the Anglo-Saxon Dialogue of Salomon and Saturnus, and especially Guerrini's La vita e le opere di Giulio Cesare Croce (Bologna, 1879), pp. 142–279. In its original form it is believed to be of Gnostic origin. The 'latinitate donatæ & nunc primum editæ' of the title is, of course, absurdly false. The authorship of the satire is unknown. Though by no means a product of the Reformation, it was, as says Kemble, 'at least turned to account for its advancement.'

SINGLE WORKS.

Contemporary Impressions.

—— Insti | tvtiones rhe- | toricae Phi- | lip. Mel. | VVittembergae. | [MDXIX.]

n. p., [1519?]. 21×16. pp. [54]. t.-p. border. Wdct initial. The 'MDXIX.,' though closely resembling print, is probably the work of a pen. This impr. seems unknown to the bibliographers, who know under this title nothing earlier than 1521.

1521.

n. p., [1521]. 20×16. pp. [75]. t.-p. border. Copious marginal notes, in a contemporary hand. Thomas Placentinus was the pseud. of the Roman theological professor, Rhadinus Todischus—not, as Melanchthon thought, of Emser.

—— Unterschidt | zwischen weltlicher vnd Christ- | licher Fromkeyt. | Philippus Melanchthon | Hagenaw.

—— Figur des Antichristlichen | Bapsts vnd seiner Synagog | [Wdct of the 'Bapstesel zu Rom.']

n. p., [1523]. 20×15. pp. [4]. This curious product, apparently unknown to the bibliographers, is clearly the first form of Melanchthon's Deuttung der Bapstesel zu Rom, for a later version of which see the next title.

—— [De dialectica.] At end: Impressvm VVit- | tembergae per Io- | sephvm Clvgvin. | 1529.

16h. pp. [209]. t.-p. wanting. Text in italics. Wdct initials. Wdct on last leaf. This is that missing first impr. of the Dialectica in its revised form, whose existence the editors of the great collective ed. of Melanchthon's Opera (xiii, p 509) suspected, but of which their search could find neither trace nor mention. Melanchthon's pref. letter to Reiffenstein is dated 'Calendis Iulii,' without year. Throughout the vol. are copious marginal notes, in a neat, fine contemporary hand somewhat resembling Melanchthon's own, partly upright in red, partly cursive in black. They are evidently those of a scholar, and end (on p. following colophon) with this signature: 'finiuit anno M. d. xxxij | Apmanus' or 'Æpinianus' (? Joh. Aepinus). Appended, in another 16th century hand, are 6 ff. (5 tables) of 'Figuræ de dialectica Phillipi Melanchtonis.' In vol. lettered Phil. Melanchthon, Grammatica Graeca.

Just what share of the book, as it appeared first in 1532, was due to each has remained uncertain; but it is agreed that the wholly rewritten work, under the same title, of which Melanchthon published the first vol. in 1558, is to be ascribed to the latter as an independent production.

—— Dehortaciones a presbiterio seu | rationes dehortantes a pres | biterio p p: m: [? per Philippum Melanchthonem—? pro parte mea].

A page of 16th century ms., written on the reverse of the last leaf of Ein Sermon Thobie Fabri, [Leipzig, 1523,] (for which see Faber, T.). The handwriting is clearly not Melanchthon's, whose neat Latin script it does not resemble; and the matter can hardly be his. Both the ligatures and the forms of the letters point to a date not far from that of the Sermon itself. As it is a mere 'argument,' or outline, a full transcript is here given:

'[Title, as above.] | 1: Qvod presbyterium non est nisi ministerium verbi | 1: corin: 4: Et 1: corin: 1: Non misit me | dominus baptisare sed euangelisare ut ad Tit: 1: | Et Petri: vlt: Pascite gregem, Malach: | 2: labia sacerdotis custodiant scientiam. Ergo | qui non docent non sunt presbiteri, Nunc autem | non iudico me posse euangelium predicare quia dicit | Pau: ad Neophitum [1: Timo: 3:] ne superbia elatus in | iudicia incidat

2: Hodie est missas legere, nunc autem missare | est mera decepcio populi, quia aiunt presbiteri | se missare pro alijs aut offerre hostias. | Christus autem non iam offertur, & impijssimum est | eciam, quod dicunt missam prodesse communi | ecclesie eciamsi sacrificanti presbitero non | prosit, Sicut soli baptisato prodest bap | tismus, ita missa soli ei qui uescitur.

3: Quia sunt ociosi homines Est autem preceptum ad | philipp: 4: laborare manibus. Et 2: ad Thess: 3: | Gene: 3: In sudore uultus tui comedes pa | nem tuum. Et prebende passim fundate sunt per er | rores propter missas. Ergo qui talibus prebendis | viuunt peccant.

4: Preter missas eciam in alijs ceremonijs & riti | bus ecclesie exercent presbyteri decepcio | nes & fraudes. The bracketed references are inserted from the margin.

—— [His copy of] Aesopi | Phrygis fabellae Grae | ce & Latine, cum alijs opusculis, quo- | rum index proxima refertur | pagella. | [Device.] | Basileæ, in officina Ioannis Frobenij. | An. M. D. XXIIII. At end: Basileae apvd Ioannem | Frobenivm mense | Febrvario. | An. M.D.XXIIII.

18h. pp. 364+[2]. Wdct initials. Device on reverse of last leaf.

The 'alia opuscula' are: Gabriæ Græci fabellæ.—Ex Aphthonii exercitamentis de fabula: tum de formicis et cicadis.—De fabula ex imaginibus Philostrati [et aliorum libris].—Homeri Batrachomyomachia, hoc est, ranarum et murium pugna.—Musæus de Ero et Leandro.—Agapetus de officio regis.—Hippocratis jusjurandum.—Galeomyomachia, hoc est, felium et murium pugna, tragœdia Græca. Of all save the last a literal Latin transl. is printed parallel to the Greek original.

MELANCHTHON'S COPY, with many autograph notes by him. The latter begin on p. 255, with the extract from Aphthonius, and are most numerous upon the Batrachomyomachia. On the blank page following the colophon he has neatly written a Latin epigram 'to Erasmus,' of which the following is a careful transcription:

'P M erasmo
Si phrygij disces diuinum carmen Erasme
Moribus & lingua, tum age cultus eris
Nomine quæ sophiæ se vendit turba superba
Ore sonat Tragico somnia ridicule
Ecce iocis Phrygius dum condit seria, punctum
Omne tulit miscens, fulcibus [for dulcibus] vtilia
Phæacios alius forsan laudauerit hortos
Hic mihi fragrantes phrix olet ecce rosas
Moribus humanis quam prosit tincta lepore
Fabulas si noris phrix tibi testis erit.'

A comparison shows that this is the same epigram as that printed among Melanchthon's Carmina (in his Op., x, 494—following the Basel ed. of 1541) as addressed to Erasmus Ebner; but with the lines transposed and with considerable variations in diction. On the reverse of the same leaf, above the device, is written this note:

'Omnium maxime commendabitur Apologus, si condieris descripcione morum, vt in Leone et Lupo describendo, principem et Tyrannum depingas, bestiæ tribuens, id quod ad homines proprie pertinebat P M'

And, beneath the device, the following:

'Apologis vsitacius est vtendum, nisi quis felicissime et argute confingat nouos. Vetustas enim sicut aliis rebus, ita apologis quoque multum addit graciæ.'

A beginning of this last note had been made a little above, at the right of the device, where two or three of the first words ('Vsitacius est vten'), though partially erased, are still legible.

Attached to a fly-leaf is a letter from Dr. Bindseil (editor of the great collective ed. of Melanchthon's Opera), dated Halle, 27 Jul. 1869, to Dr. Schöberlein, of Göttingen, from whose library this volume was bought, attesting the genuineness of the handwriting of these notes—of which he promises to make mention in the supplements to his edition. His transcription of them (in his letter) is, however, not free from errors.

Strauss and many others think Hutten the author of this remarkable dialogue; but both Böcking and Schade refuse to believe this. Written in 1521, it has nothing but the name in common with the earlier Karsthans, being an attempt to lead knight and peasant to join hands in support of both religious and social revolution, and ending in a formal programme which seems a prototype of the famous 'Twelve Articles' of the Peasant War of 1525.

This book, a rich collection of satires upon the Papacy, whose editorship is usually ascribed to the Italian exile Curio (Celio Secundo Curione), was rigorously suppressed by the Roman authorities and has been for centuries counted a treasure. Daniel Heinsius wrote in his copy, obtained after long search, the following epigram:

'Roma meos fratres igni dedit: unica Phœnix
Vivo; aureisque veneo centum Heinsio.'

But the statement that the book was burned is now deemed apocryphal, and even its rarity is not so great as has been supposed.

Razzi, Frà Serafino. Della vita e morte di frà Girolamo Savonarola . . . libri tre.

A manuscript, 28×20, ff. [300], neatly written in what seems an Italian hand of the 17th century. The third book is devoted to the miracles of Savonarola. Appended, in the same hand, are (1) sundry documents tending to prove his sainthood, and (2) two of his poems, viz. Sobra la felicità di Firenze and Laude al crocifisso. Razzi's pref. to his readers was written in 1590.

'. . . Più conosciuta assai è la biografia scritta dal P. Serafino Razzi, anch' esso frate di San Marco. Il suo lavoro veramente non è altro che una compilazione fatta sul Pico e sul Burlamacchi; giacchè egli non era stato contemporaneo del Savonarola, nè aveva molto acume per far nuove indagini. Nondimeno potè discorrere con alcuni vecchi Fiorentini che lo avevano conosciuto, e fra questi con l'ottuagenario Lorenzo Violi, di cui lesse e compendiò il manoscritto delle Giornate; aveva raccolto e trascritto un numero grandissimo di apologie e d'altri lavori intorno alla vita ed alla dottrina del suo eroe. Le opere del Razzi si trovana manoscritte nella Magliabechiana, nella Riccardiana e nella Laurenziana.'—Villari.

That the author of this life of Savonarola could not have been Frà Pacifico Burlamacchi was pointed out by Ranke, and is now acknowledged by all scholars; but the work is still known by his name. That, on the other hand, it is not of as late origin as Ranke suspected, nor compiled by Frà Timoteo Bottonio, whose revision of it is the only printed form, has been abundantly shown by Villari (in the Rivistà Storica Italiana, 1884, and less fully in the pref. to the 2d ed. of his Storia di Savonarola), who has found at Florence the autograph Latin original of the author—a Dominican of San Marco, writing in 1524. —— VITA DI SAVONAROLA.

A manuscript, 24×16, written on paper, in an Italian hand of the first half of the 16th century. 45 ff. (pp. 89) + 3 fly-leaves at end; the whole guarded by an illuminated vellum leaf from a 15th century commentary on the Civil Law, and bd. in mottled boards. n. t.-p. Fol. 1 a begins: Incomincia la uita del R^do P. fra Hyeronimo da Ferrara dellordine dei frati predicatori, followed by the text, beginning Fu fra Hyeronimo Sauonarola per patria padouano, etc. On fol. 39 a the end of the text, closing: per el fuoco et per lagua sono passati al Regno de beati: doue uinan con christo per infinita secula:— Amen. Thus far in Italian. At the head of fol. 39 b, in Latin, the caption: Miracula viri Dei Hyeronimi, followed by a list, in the same handwriting as the Vita, but in Latin, of sixty-eight miracles, arranged in a mainly chronological order (the 1st beginning with the words Anno domini 1498, the 67th—the 68th has no date—with Anno domini 1523), and ending on fol. 45 a, with the words: omnia retulit fratri Angelo Bettino.

The author's name is nowhere given; and a comparison of this Vita with the two known early biographies of Savonarola —the Latin one by the younger Pico della Mirandola, and the Italian one long ascribed to Burlamacchi—shows that it is neither a translation of the one nor a copy of the other. In its general substance and order, indeed, it shows a striking agreement with the Burlamacchi; and that it lacks the prologue, breaks off at the death of Savonarola, is somewhat differently chaptered, and is throughout briefer in detail, might suggest only the possibility of its being an earlier form of that well-known biography—such an earlier form as Potthast and Ranke sought in vain—were it not for the constant and needless diversity in diction which this hypothesis leaves unexplained. A ready solution of this latter difficulty might be found in supposing the two to be independent translations from some common source; and the Florentine ms. discovered by Villari (see note under BURLAMACCHI above) at once suggests itself as the probable original. But it is clear from the citations he makes from it (in the 2d ed. of his Vita di Savonarola) that the Florentine ms. contains more than one passage (as, e. g., the famous scene at the death-bed of Lorenzo) that is wanting in ours.

As to the time of its composition, the latest date mentioned in the Vita itself is 'l'ultimo di di aprile nel .M.D.XX.,' when 'il venerabil padre fra Bartho. di Piovanni da Ragugia' narrated to the monks of San Marco the story of Savonarola's prophetic sermons at Brescia. (The same episode appears in the printed Burlamacchi—where, however, the narrator's name is mutilated to 'F. Bartholomeo Ra . . .') That, like both the printed Burlamacchi and Villari's ms., it cites the life by Pico, is explained by the known existence of the latter in ms. as early as 1520. But the presence in it of the prophecy of a Pope Clement must, as Ranke points out and as Villari admits in the case of the two others, forbid the skeptical historian to assign it an earlier date than the accession of that Pope: 1523. None of the passages on which Ranke bases his ascription of the Burlamacchi to a still later date are to be found in this ms.

More light upon the identity of the author and upon the date of his writing is thrown by the appended list of Miracula. It is notable that these miracles are in no instance identical with those recounted at the end of the Pico and the Burlamacchi biographies. The descriptions, too, are briefer; the circumstances, for the most part, less startling; the scene, almost without exception, Florence or its immediate neighborhood. That the latest in chronologic sequence occurred in 1523 is most significant; for the Pico and Burlamacchi lists show that there was no lack of subsequent marvels. Many are narrated as reported to this or to that friar; and of these friars one named with especial frequency—'frater Jacobus Siculus'—is well known to history as a friend of Savonarola and after him prior of San Marco. Most suggestive of all is the second of the list, which runs as follows (the ellipsis is the manuscript's):

'2. Cum vir dei uisitaret infirmos inter ceteros venerabile*m* patre*m* fratre*m* . . . . . librariu*m* infirmu*m* et interrogauit quinam esset: quo cognito dixit nesciebam ipsu*m* egrotare: et sanauit eu*m*—u t m i h i i p s e r e t u l i t:—'

And, in the seventh, we are told of the appearance of Savonarola to a monk, 'moribus, etate et scientia ornatus cuius ordinem et dignitatem t a c e o donec perficiatur opus sibi impositum.' All this seems to warrant the inference that the writer was probably himself a friar of San Marco, writing in or about the year 1524. That the present ms. is his autograph nothing indicates save these allusions to himself in the first person. There are few erasures or corrections, and these all in the hand of the text. A comparison of the handwriting with dated Lucchese mss. of 1515–1517 in the possession of the White Library shows the closest resemblance in general character.

The little ms. was picked up, in Feb. 1888, at a London book-shop (Dulau's, in Soho Square). An Italian ms. note on the inside of the fore-cover, in a modern Italian hand, ascribing the work conjecturally (and erroneously) to Pico, shows that it had not been long in English hands. It deserves a careful collation with the mss. at Florence. It can hardly be of later date than that found by Villari; and, if identical in source, may well be an earlier vernacular draft.

Sotheby, Samuel Leigh. Unpublished documents, marginal notes and memoranda, in the autograph of Philip Melanchthon and of Martin Luther; with numerous fac-similes. Accompanied with observations upon the varieties of style in the handwriting of these illustrious reformers, by S. L. Sotheby.

London, 1840. 40×28. pp. 16+[55]. 34 plates. Sotheby, the author of this preposterous work, was a London book-auctioneer, to whom was consigned for sale the collection of the German bibliophile, Prof. Dr. Georg Kloss, of Frankfurt a. M., and who thought he discovered therein the private library of Melanchthon. For Dr. Kloss's letter, in which he wholly repudiates Sotheby's theory and shows its utter untenableness, see the Serapeum for 31 Dec. 1841. The collection was gathered volume by volume from the most diverse sources, and mostly from Catholic quarters where it was impossible that Melanchthon could have been. According to Dr. K., only three of the volumes contained genuine autographs of the Reformer. Not all the facsimiles given by Sotheby, however, are from this spurious source; and the book is its own best refutation.

For an original impression (ca. 1500) of this famous official tariff of the papal pardon-office, see Libellus taxarum: and, for another repr., Mendham, J., Life of Pius V (appendix). The dispute as to its authenticity seems now finally settled by the proofs adduced by the Dominican Denifle, sub-archivist of the Vatican, who in his Archiv für Literatur- u. Kirchengeschichte d. Mittelalters (iv, 3—Dec. 1888) not only describes a 15th century ms. copy of it in the Vatican library but prints from an older Vatican ms. an earlier and cruder, yet essentially similar, tariff of the year 1338.

For its contents, see under Gratius, as above. In his pref. Weissenburger seems to claim for himself the compilation of this work, saying only that he was aided by good men, whose names he will not mention; but Flacius, in the pref. (dated 1 May, 1556), to his Varia doctorum piorumque virorum de corrupto ecclesiae statu poemata (which, had it been earlier added to the library, would also have claimed a place in this catalogue), hints that he was the collector of the Antilogia also, and it is perhaps on this basis that it is ascribed to him by Brunet, Graesse, and others. The Catalogus testium of Flacius was issued from the same press as the Antilogia and in the following year.

HARVARD COLLEGE LIBRARY.

THE PROTESTANT REFORMATION AND ITS FORERUNNERS.

Supplement: PORTRAITS OF THE REFORMERS.

[NOTE.—Since the issue of the catalogue of this portion of the President White Library there has been added to the library a considerable collection of portraits of the Reformers. To these the present supplement is devoted. They are arranged in three portfolios, lettered respectively: 'Portraits of Precursors of the Reformation,' 'Portraits of Luther and His Family,' 'Portraits of Luther's Contemporaries and Successors. Miscellaneous Engravings.' Within the portfolios the arrangement is as nearly as possible chronological. This order is also followed in the catalogue, the number of the title corresponding to the number upon the picture, and to its place in the portfolio. Both arrangement and catalogue are the work of Dr. Pallmann, of Frankfurt a. M., whose descriptions have been translated into English by Dr. F. M. Fling. A dash in place of the artist's name marks a portrait as anonymous.]

PORTFOLIO I.

Portraits of Precursors of the Reformation.

1. Hus, Jan. DESROCHERS, E. Engraving, signed: Gravé par E. Desrochers, à Paris; 15×10.5; bust in profile, facing to left; in cap and furred robe; form, an oval within a rectangle; French title: Jean Hus, né en Bohéme, etc.; closely trimmed.

2. —— BOLLINGER. Engraving, signed: Bollinger sc. 1820; size of portrait 9.2×7.3; size of card 19×12.3; bust, with cap, facing to left; form octagonal; title: Joh. Huss; below that: Zwickau bei Gebr. Schumann.

3. Hieronymus (Eng. Jerome) of Prague. HONDIUS, H. Engraving by Heinrich Hondius, the younger, probably one of a collection of portraits published in 1640 by Verheyden at the Hague; 17×11.8; half-length portrait, long hair and beard, cap on head, facing to right; inscription: Hieronymvs Bohemvs Pragensis, and four Latin verses: Et vultum pietas velauit et anxia virtus; in right hand upper corner, artist's monogram; closely trimmed.

4. Ziska, Jan. —— Pen drawing, lightly tinted, inscribed on the back, in red ink and partially illegible: Fernandus Jacobus St. . . . . Anno 1688, Aetatis suae . . . .; 25.3×18; three-quarter-length portrait, facing to the left; with pointed helmet, breast-plate, and scarf; the left hand on his sword and in the right a war flail; subscription: Der Hussiten Oberster Johannes Ziska; closely trimmed.

5. —— —— Engraving. Unsigned, of the 17th century; 18×13.5; half-length portrait, facing a little to the right; form, an oval with Latin circumscription, within a rectangle; below, a two-line Latin inscription; trimmed to the edge of plate.

6. Wiclif, John. HONDIUS, H. Engraving by Heinrich Hondius, the elder; probably from the book, Praestantium aliquot Theologicorum effigies, Opera Jacobi Verheiden, Hagae comitis, 1602, fol.; 16.9×12; bust, facing to left, with cap; inscription: Joannes Wiclefvs Anglvs; then four Latin verses: Quanta fuit rabies, odijque potentia vestri, etc.; trimmed to the edge of the plate.
